

SOLOMON'S

INDEPENDENT FINANCIAL ADVICE

I recently came across quite a good business networking site called LinkedIn, which is not just for business owners. The free online version enables you to potentially develop your network of contacts, which can be highly valuable.

For those of you that run your own business you will be aware that I often try to connect you with high quality, like-minded people that may be able to add value to your business, or service a need. So if you have not yet joined LinkedIn, may I suggest that you give it a try – perhaps add my details to get you going? One of the many aspects of my job that I enjoy is connecting people - frankly this makes it an easier process. Find me here.
